Janelle Plummer, John G. Taylor : Community Participation in China: Issues and Processes for Capacity Building before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Community Participation in China: Issues and Processes for Capacity Building:

This important volume provides a source of information on the key issues, including constraints and capacity building, necessary to implement participatory approaches in China today. A wealth of case studies are provided by principal Chinese academics and practitioners in forestry, natural resource management, rural development, irrigation and poverty alleviation. At the core, the book is about strengthening local government as a key player in the development of participatory initiatives. It is an invaluable text for development practitioners, donors, researchers and students seeking to understand the opportunities and constraints for participation in China, and for those working to institutionalize participatory processes in a complex rural context.

About the Author Janelle Plummer is Senior Institutional Development Specialist for the Water and Sanitation Program based at the World Bank, Jakarta. John G Taylor is Professor of Politics and Director of the Development Studies Programme at South Bank University, London.
