

[Ebook free] Is Good Governance Good for Development? (The United Nations Series on Development)

Is Good Governance Good for Development? (The United Nations Series on Development)

Jomo Kwame Sundaram, Anis Chowdhury
*Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

#2204609 in eBooks 2012-08-02 2012-08-02 File Name: B00975FF86 | File size: 74.Mb

Jomo Kwame Sundaram, Anis Chowdhury : Is Good Governance Good for Development? (The United Nations Series on Development) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Is Good Governance Good for Development? (The United Nations Series on Development):

While good governance is a worthy goal by itself, it is nota prerequisite for economic growth or development. This volume challenges theconventional good governance paradigm favoured by the donor community. Itexposes the methodological shortcomings of the commonly used governanceindicators developed within the World Bank. It highlights the conceptuallimitations or lack of clarity of good governance and debunks the central plankof the good governance hypothesis that good governance causes economic growth.The volume demonstrates that good governance can mean many things, and countries possessing features of good governance can be different both structurally and institutionally. Countries that are developed now did not have the ideal features of good governance - these features evolved with economic growth.

About the Author Jomo Kwame Sundaram was United Nations Assistant-Secretary General for Economic Development. He was awarded the Wassily Leontief Prize for Advancing the Frontiers of Economic Thought in 2007. Anis Chowdhury is Chief of the Macroeconomic and Development Division of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific at the United Nations. He was Senior Economic Affairs Officer in the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UN-DESA), and Professor of Economics at the University of Western Sydney, Australia. Also by Jomo Kwame Sundaram and Anis Chowdhury (eds.) in this series: Poor Poverty: The Impoverishment of Analysis, Measurement and Policies (2011) Contributors: Rita Abrahamsen, Associate Professor, School of International Development and Global Studies, Graduate School of Public and International Affairs, University of Ottawa, Canada; Matthew Andrews, Associate Professor of Public Policy, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, USA; Arthur Goldsmith, Associate Dean of the College of Management, University of Massachusetts, USA; Mushtaq Khan, Professor of Economics, School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London, UK; Marcus Kurtz, Associate Professor of Political Science, Ohio State University, USA; Martin Painter is Chair and Professor of Public Administration, City University of Hong Kong; Andrew Schrank, Professor of Political Science and Sociology, University of New Mexico, USA; Brian van Arkadie, Development economist and consultant