Positive Local HistoryBy Linda RThis particular book was close to my heart, as I am from the area and worked for this company during it's last years, right up until it closed. There were pictures in the book of old friends and it brought up many pleasant memories. I'm glad this book was made available,both to us ,the employees , and to the many shoppers/customers who frequented the store(s) over the years.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Loveman's: Meet Me Under the ClockBy Caye EverettMy mother and father would always meet under the clock. And my mother worked at Loveman's in jewelry and the ladies department. As a small child i remember going and looking in the windows at the Christmas displays. Fun times. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. A fantastic trip back in time! By Bill Smith From the expert storytelling and historical perspective of Tim Hollis comes this great book that reflects back upon the history of a great retailer! VERY well written and easy to read. Lots of wonderful vintage images and ads. Looking forward to this authors next works!

In an era when local department stores still thrived, Birmingham shoppers had different stores from which to choose. But when customers sought more than bargain prices, when they demanded unparalleled quality and outright luxury, they chose Loveman's. The first store opened in Birmingham in 1887, and the chain eventually grew to include locations in Huntsville and Montgomery, embracing those from throughout the state who valued an upscale shopping experience. Weathering the Great Depression, a devastating fire that destroyed the original location in 1934 and historic civil rights protests in the early 1960s, Loveman's proved to be an enduring name through many eras of change until finally closing its doors in 1980. Now, Birmingham historian Tim Hollis chronicles the sterling history of this celebrated store's commitment to excellence.

"While few visible reminders remain from Loveman's glory days, the clock has been preserved....And thanks to Tim Hollis, so have the memories." --Bob Carlton, The Birmingham News About the Author Tim Hollis has authored seventeen books of non-fiction history ranging in subjects from southern tourism nostalgia to Birmingham history to children's television, among many other topics. Having lived in Birmingham his entire life, he supplies the nostalgic materials for the popular www.BirminghamRewound.com website and contributes a monthly column, "Timepiece", to Birmingham Magazine."
