TaubmanAs the author of a #1 .com bestseller, UnHypnosis ([...] I'm constantly being asked to review the work of other authors. Many of the books that come across my desk are dull, lifeless, or filled with meaningless platitudes. Greg's new book, Put Your Business on Autopilot, is a refreshing change. His ideas are original, useful, and inspiring. I do a lot of business and personal coaching, yet I learned several things from reading Greg's useful book that will help me reduce my workload and enjoy my business more.It behooves everyone in business to buy, read, and study this powerful resource. The time and money you spend doing so will be more than paid off by the time and money you'll save in living a more sensible business life.

Roworth shows business owners how to avoid the normal traps of self-employment and, instead, create the business of their dreams.

About the AuthorGreg Roworth is an entrepreneur who has built and sold three successful businesses. His invaluable hands on business experience has been supplemented by academic studies which have resulted in qualifications as a Master of Business Administration and a Chartered Accountant with a Bachelor of Business degree. Over the past 5 years in New Zealand, Greg built a business consultancy organization that last year expanded into the USA. Earlier this year, Greg sold his shares in that business to focus on book writing and other business interests. His previous experience includes 12 years as founder and owner of a business selling and installing residential irrigation systems, in Adelaide, South Australia; 2 years as manager of a retail computer store; 2 years as a consultant in a Big 4 Accountancy firm and 8 years as a business consultant in various firms in Adelaide.
